Dear Friends and Partners,

Keith Green once declared, "This generation of Christians is responsible for this generation of souls on the earth!" Let the weight of those words settle into your soul as we step into the wonder of the Christmas season. This truth, heavy yet beautiful, calls us to reflect on the very reason Jesus left the splendor of heaven—the unmatched glory of His place at the Father's side—to dwell among us. He came to bring light into the darkness, life to the dying, and hope to the hopeless.

Jesus stepped into our world with a purpose—knowing that one day, you and I would be entrusted with the sacred mission of carrying the Gospel to our generation. This thought is both humbling and thrilling. It is humbling because it reminds us that eternity weighs in the balance for those we encounter. It is thrilling because He accomplished all that was necessary. By His perfect life, sacrificial death, and victorious resurrection, Jesus opened the door for every soul to find life, peace, and eternal joy in Him. And now, He calls us—imperfect yet empowered by His Spirit—to be His voice, His hands, His feet.

The message we carry is the greatest story ever told. It is the ultimate gift, one that has the power to transform not just lives but eternities. As we celebrate the birth of Christ, we are reminded that Christmas is not just a moment to marvel at the manger but a call to action. The baby born in Bethlehem grew to be the Savior who bore our sin and rose triumphant. His mission didn't end with His ascension—it continues through you and me. Every act of obedience, every word of truth, and every expression of His love is a thread in the tapestry of God's redeeming work in our world.

We are so deeply grateful for you—our friends, supporters, and co-laborers in this divine mission. Together, we are the generation entrusted with the Gospel for this time, this place, and these people. Your prayers, generosity, and partnership make it possible to spread this life-changing message to those who desperately need to hear it. What a privilege to join hands with you as we proclaim the good news: Jesus has come. He has died. He has risen. He will come again.

So let us embrace this calling with renewed urgency and boldness. This is no ordinary mission; it is a holy charge that carries the weight of eternity. The Gospel is the greatest gift we can ever give—a gift that can break chains, restore hope, and ignite worship in the hearts of those who receive it. As we reflect on the miracle of His birth, let us also recommit ourselves to the mission He left for us. This Christmas, may we not only celebrate His coming but also declare His glory to a world that desperately needs Him.

Thank you for walking this path with us. Together, let us shine the light of Christ, proclaim His love, and see His kingdom come. For truly, there is no greater purpose, no greater calling, and no greater joy than to see lives forever changed by the power of His Gospel!
